Most Important Issues

NEW YORK

Please rank the following issues in terms of how important you think it is for government to deal with that issue by putting a "1" next to the most important, a "2" next to the second most important, and so on.

NEW YORK

Do you personally know anyone who is struggling or has struggled with substance use? Please select all that apply.

If a family member or friend struggled with substance use, do you think they could find treatment that would be covered by their health insurance?

After the split sample questions and prior to the questions on this slide, respondents were provided with this definition:

In this survey we will ask your opinions about “substance use”. A person who struggles with substance use may be using alcohol, opioids, or other drugs with harmful impacts to their overall health and wellbeing. Some people may use other language such as drug or alcohol addiction, substance or drug abuse, or substance use disorder to describe someone struggling with substance use. For the purposes of this survey “substance use” accounts for all of these situations.

NEW YORK

Compared with current spending on programs to prevent and treat substance use, do you think the federal government should:

Do you agree or disagree with the following statement?
We need to treat substance use more as a health problem and less as a criminal problem.

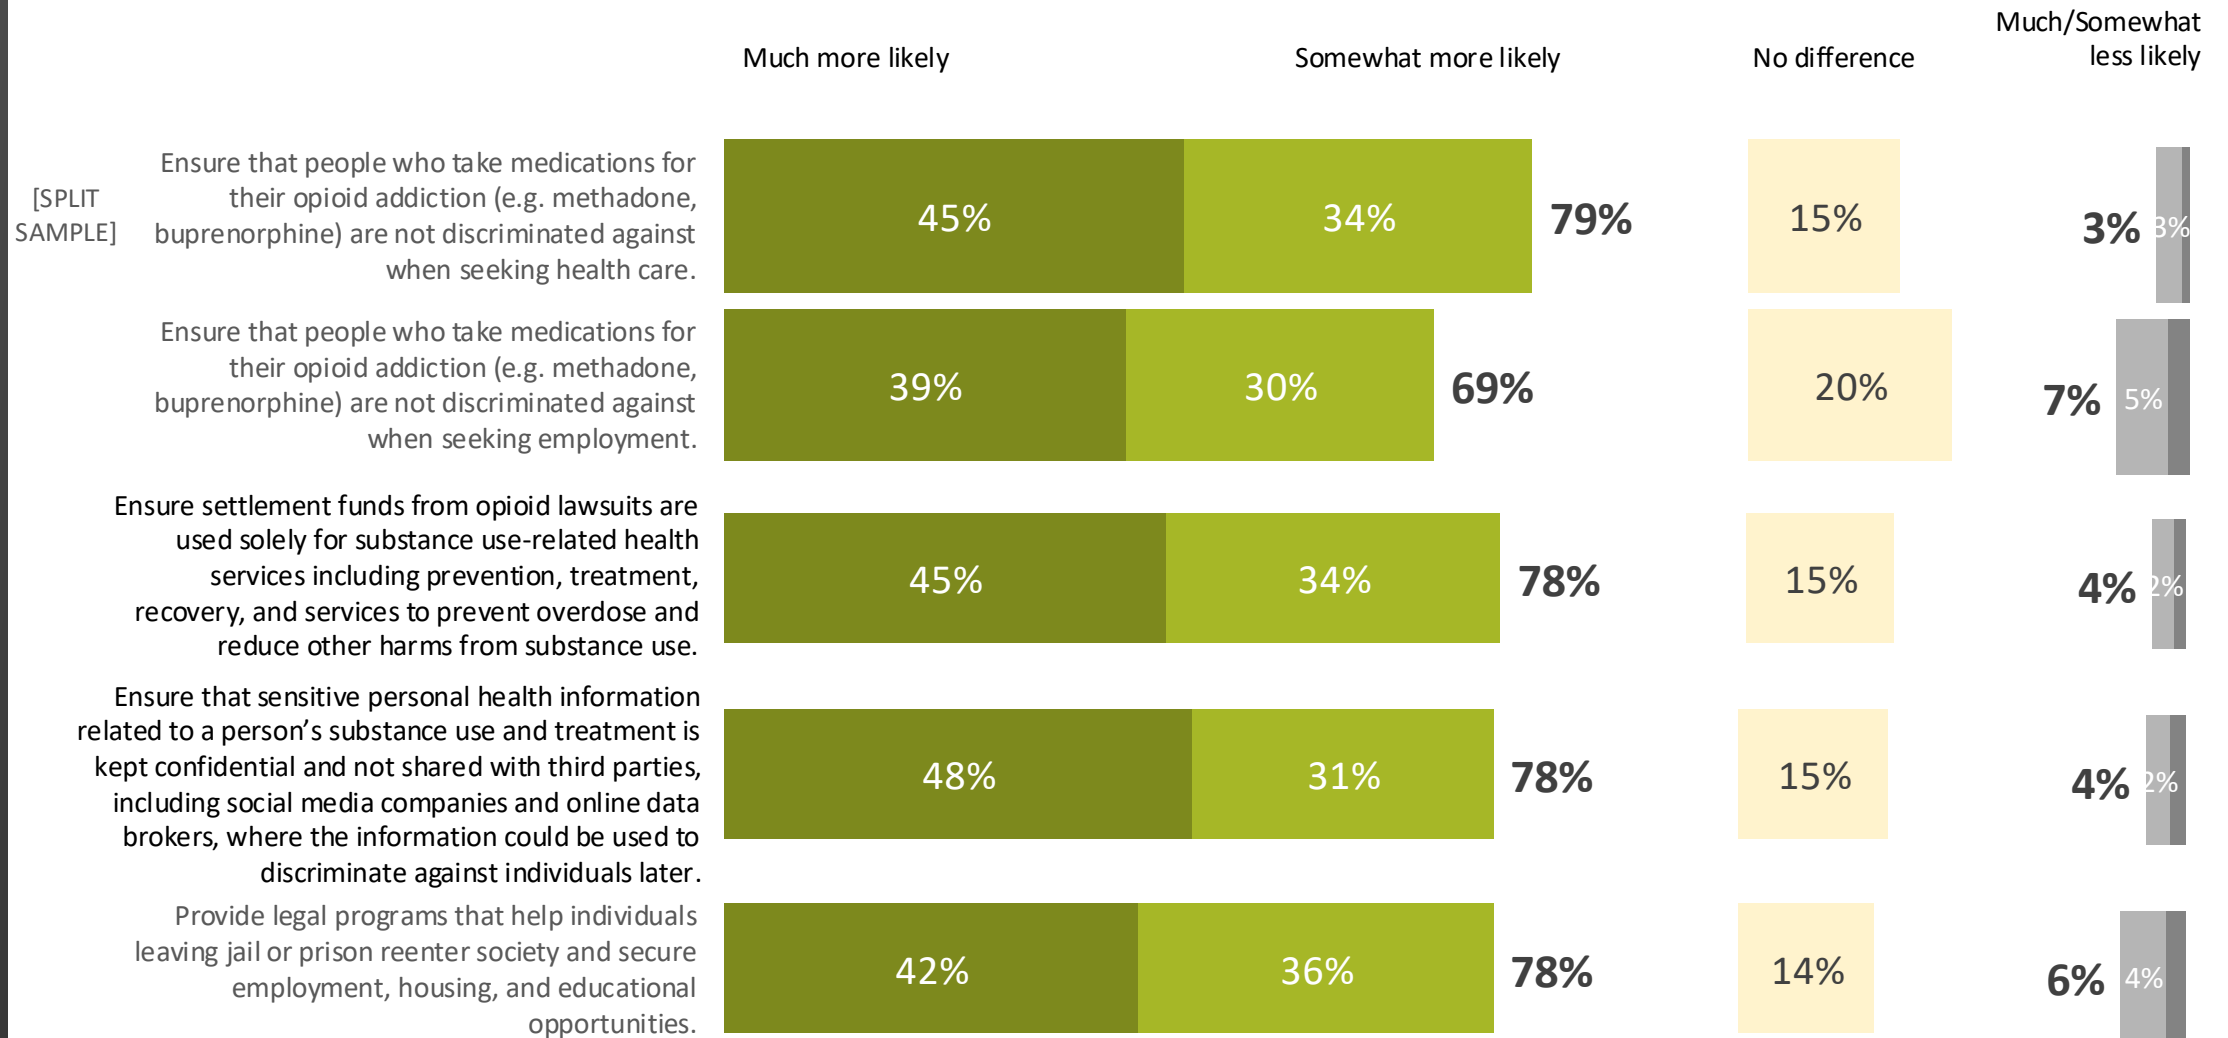

The following is a list of policy proposals to address substance use and criminal justice issues in the United States. In an election for statewide office such as Governor or the United States Senate, would you be more likely or less likely to support a candidate who favors each of the following policy proposals?

Some states have recently passed laws prohibiting health insurers from requiring their prior approval before someone could be prescribed medications by their doctor to treat substance use.

Based on this description and anything else you may know, would you be more likely or less likely to support a candidate who voted for those laws?

Would you be more likely or less likely to support a candidate who favors the following further actions to make it easier for people struggling with substance use to obtain treatment:

NEW YORK

New York State recently passed a law, known as Clean Slate, to automatically seal eligible conviction records after a waiting period of eight years (for felonies) or three years (for misdemeanors), so that people who have completed their sentences, had no additional convictions, and paid their debt to society will be better able to secure a job and place to live.

Would you be more likely or less likely to support a candidate who voted for this law?

The New York State Senate has passed a bill, known as Elder Parole, to provide individuals in jail or prison aged 55 and older who have already served at least 15 years the opportunity to apply for parole.

Would you be more likely or less likely to support a candidate who voted for this law?

NEW YORK

New York State has recently doubled funding for alternatives to jail or prison and tripled funding for services that help people reenter society after being in jail or prison.

Would you be more likely or less likely to support a candidate who voted for this expansion of services?

Would you be more likely or less likely to support a candidate who voted to invest additional money in these services so they could be available in all parts of New York State?
